CIGARETTE LITTER PREVENTION

Selecting and Using Ash Receptacles and Portable Ashtrays

PORTABLE AND POCKET ASHTRAYS

Portable Ashtrays travel with the smoker from home to office, car, boat, and golf cart, picnic or beach. After extinguishing the cigarette, the butt is placed in the portable ashtray, which closes securely for safety. Empty the contents and wipe or rinse the portable ashtray for reuse.

Portable Auto Ashtrays are shaped like a cup and fit in a car or boat cup-holder. Pocket Ashtrays are smaller portable ashtrays that fit into a pocket, briefcase, or purse. Pocket ashtrays can be reused indefinitely after the contents are emptied. The best of these hold several cigarette butts and close securely with a click or a snap.

ASH RECEPTACLES

Ash receptacles are designed to capture cigarettes and cigarette butts. When choosing ash receptacles:

- Identify quantity and placement of receptacles. Most receptacles are needed at "transition points," places where people stop or start smoking before they proceed. Examples include bus and train stops, entrances to public buildings, waterfronts, parks, or other recreation areas.

- Identify which ash receptacles match community needs and budget. Ash receptacles come in a range of styles, prices, and capacity. Consider security and ease of maintenance. To effectively reduce cigarette butt litter, Keep America Beautiful research has shown that "ash-only" receptacles work best. Combination ash/trash receptacles are generally less effective.
